MR. HOGAN CLAIMS 'SPITE IN BANK ROW'

Senate Banking Committee
Hears Controller-Riggs
Case Reviewed.

NOMINATION IS OPPOSED

A charge that John Skelton Williams, controller of the currency, carried on a fight against the Riggs National Bank in 1913 because of personal animosity and because two officers of the bank appeared against the confirmation of his nomination before the Senate committee was made to the Senate banking and currency committee today by Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the bank during the controversy with the controller.

Mr. Hogan resumed his testimony today before the committee, which is considering the reappointment of Mr. Williams.

"This fight," said Mr. Hogan, "was being carried on by Mr. Williams against the only bank whose officers appeared against his confirmation. Is it any wonder that former Senator Weeks said to this committee at the last session of Congress that the bankers were afraid to appear against this man? It would have been suicidal for a bank to oppose him."

Ruling by Former Controller.

Mr. Hogan said the controversy began in 1913, when an assistant national bank examiner appeared at Riggs Bank and demanded permission to take a list of depositors who had loans of $5,000 or more in the bank and their balances.

Mr. Hogan pointed out that former Controller Lawrence O. Murray, in 1909, had issued an order prohibiting bank examiners from taking lists of depositors and their deposits from national banks, on the ground that such action was not proper, and that if the bank examiners became officers of banks later, as they frequently did, such a list might be used to aid a competing bank.

"The bank refused the request of the assistant examiner and wrote to the controller, citing this order of Controller Murray," said Mr. Hogan. Mr. Hogan insisted that Mr. Williams' reply to the bank was "discourteous, indecent and disrespectful." One sentence referred to the "alleged" order of the controller's office.

"At Mr. Williams' knowledge of this order, and it was not an allegation by the bank," said Mr. Hogan.

Criticizes Statement.

"This man is an adept in the most dangerous form of falsification, the telling of half truths," he continued. He told how the controller had given out a statement to the newspapers asserting that four officers of the Riggs Bank had borrowed more than $5,000,000 of the bank in a period of eighteen years.

"No officer of the bank ever borrowed any money without giving ample collateral security," he said. "They did not borrow merely on their own notes."

Mr. Hogan said that the figures published in the statement appeared correct and were intended to be so. He charged that the controller in reaching this total had added up all the renewed notes, and demonstrated to the committee how, by so doing, the total could have been made very large.

"In an inconspicuous part of the statement," continued Mr. Hogan, "Mr. Williams said that some of the loans have been renewed. Didn't he know that some of these loans were renewed? Couldn't he have found out about them with his examining staff?"

"The statement given out was calculated to do harm to the bank, if it could be carried out," he said, "and the complete unfitness of this man for office."

R. N. HARPER APPOINTED ON MAIL SERVICE BODY

Robert N. Harper, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, was notified today of his appointment as a member of a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce to work for the improvement of mail delivery between the big cities of the country.

Appointment of Mr. Harper is a recognition by the national chamber of Washington as one of the principal cities of the nation. The other members of this committee on mail facilities are Lucius Teter, Chicago; Ernest T. Trigg, Philadelphia; Ernest N. Smith, Indianapolis; S. C. Mead, New York City; J. K. A. Hobson, Richmond; and E. J. Bliss, Boston.

In addition to this national committee, the United States chamber has asked the local chamber throughout the country to appoint separate committees to facilitate mail delivery in their respective communities.

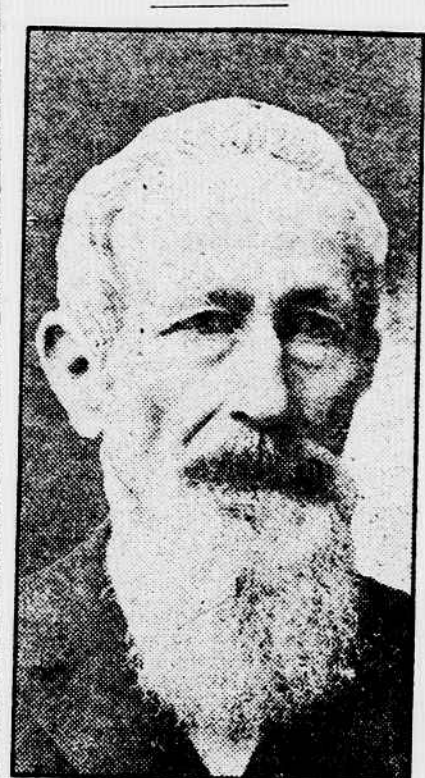

D. C. COMMITTEE MEETS.

Discusses, But Postpones, Action on Bills.

The House District committee met and adjourned today without taking any definite action on the several bills under consideration. In deference to the wishes of the attorneys for the Washington Market Company, discussion of the Johnson bill to annul the lease of government property, which has stood for nearly half a century, was postponed. The bill to allow corporations in the District to change their names also was discussed, but no definite action taken.

JOHN YEABOWER, ONE OF OLDEST RESIDENTS, DIES

Lived Here More Than Ninety Years—Was Member of Lincoln's Mounted Guards.

JOHN YEABOWER.

John Yeabower, a resident of Washington for more than ninety years, closely identified with the early life of the capital and a member of President Lincoln's mounted guards, died at his home, 10th street and Spring road, yesterday morning.

Funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, in charge of Rev. J. F. Wenck, pastor of the Morgan Street Church. Interment will be at Rock Creek cemetery.

Mr. Yeabower, who was one of the oldest residents of the city, his services for more than ninety years to the present flourishing capital. He was familiar with many historical events which occurred here in the last century and witnessed the arrival of the first locomotive in Washington. He was among those who participated in the corner stone laying of the Washington Monument, having played one of the coins that are included in the base of the famous shaft. During the war he served as a member of the mounted guard of President Lincoln, which served as an escort to the President on all public occasions.

Many years ago Mr. Yeabower was a member of a number of organizations, among them being the Odd Fellows. He retired from business thirty years ago, and since that time has lived on his estate on Springs road. Mr. Yeabower's father was one of the founders of the first Lutheran church in the District.

He is survived by four daughters—Mrs. Emma Hittmuller, Mrs. William Berens, Miss Annie M. Yeabower and Mrs. Austin T. Avery; three sons—William H. John C. and Edwin G. Yeabower; eleven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. His wife died fifteen years ago.

Bean Pickers Wanted.

Bean pickers are wanted to assist farmerettes at the farmerette training field on Blair road, in picking the unusually large crop of string beans under cultivation at the field. An announcement by the Women's Land Army says that volunteers will be paid 25 cents an hour for helping to harvest the bean crop. Applications should be made between 12 and 1 p.m. at the office of the Women's Land Army, United States Employment Service, 1410 Pennsylvania avenue.

MERCHANT CONTRIBUTES FOR ST. JOHN'S BUILDING

One of Largest Gifts Comes From Mr. Goldenberg—Film Benefit and Dancing Event.

One of the largest contributions yet made to the building fund campaign of St. John's College, 1225 Vermont avenue, was the subscription of $500 received yesterday from M. Goldenberg, department store proprietor.

The pledge was obtained by the business men's committee and was accompanied by this message from the donor: "Good luck to your campaign—every citizen should help."

More than 800 tickets have been sold by students of the college for the special presentation of Mary Pickford's film, "Daddy Longlegs," at the Strand Theater today. Tom Moore gave the college use of the Strand for the day.

Graduates of the college who served in the Army overseas will be ushers at the theater.

More than 200 couples attended the dance given at the Columbus Country Club, Fort Berry, Va., last night, for the benefit of the college fund.

RAIL RETURN TO BE FRAMED.

Senate Subcommittee Chosen for Work on Details.

Chairman Cummins of the Senate commerce committee has announced the appointment of a subcommittee, consisting of himself and Senators Poindexter, Washington, Kellogg, Minnesota, republicans, and Robinson, Arkansas, and Pomeroy, Ohio, democrats, to consider and formulate legislation looking to the return of the railroads to private ownership. The subcommittee will begin work within a short time.
